ENVIANCE RECEIVES GOLD MEDAL IN 2005 EBJ BUSINESS ACHIEVEMENT AWARDS

Significant revenue growth, driven by transformational projects, sets Internet-based EHS compliance software provider apart

CARLSBAD, CA – February 28, 2006 – Enviance, the leading provider of Internet-based, on demand systems for the management of environmental, health and safety (EHS) compliance activities, today announced that it has been awarded a Gold Medal in the 2005 EBJ Business Achievement Awards from Environmental Business Journal (EBJ). Award recipients are selected by EBJ staff and editorial advisory board based on nominations made from within the environmental industry.

Enviance was awarded the Gold Medal in the small firm category, based on 2005 revenue growth of more than 75%. Enviance continues to expand its business of delivering software that automates and improves the management of environmental, health and safety compliance activities. As a leading operator of Internet-based compliance software as a service, the Enviance System requires no hardware or software installations, and is sold on a subscription basis. Because Enviance provides customers and partners with the flexibility to scale the solution as their needs change over time, the System is at the core of many significant EHS projects in North America, and around the world.

“The market for easily-deployed software to support environmental compliance is growing, in large part due to the great work being done by companies like Enviance in transforming and streamlining formerly paper-driven business processes,” said Grant Ferrier President, Environmental Business International, Inc. “As a result, companies are able to manage compliance activities smarter and faster while reaping the benefits of building a repository of knowledge that will serve them for years to come.”

“Achieving recognition from trusted industry advisors such as EBJ shows that we’re doing things right,” said Lawrence Goldenhersh, President and CEO, Enviance. “The respect of this important environmental standards organization is important to us. We have our customers and partners to thank for this honor, as this award really comes from their continued enthusiastic endorsement of the Enviance System, and its ability to help them confidently and cost-effectively manage EHS compliance.”

About the EBJ Business Achievement Awards

Between October and December of 2005, EBJ solicited the environmental industry for nominations for the EBJ Business Achievement Awards. Nominations were accepted in 200-word essays in either specific or unspecified categories. The 2005 EBJ awards were determined by a committee of EBJ staff and EBJ editorial advisory board members. The 2005 EBJ awards will be presented in a special ceremony at EBJ's Environmental Industry Summit IV in Coronado, California, on the evening of March 1, 2006.
